

'Still much to be done' on reform in the Catholic Church

By Ailbhe Conneely

A coalition of national church reform groups has used the 12th anniversary of Pope Francis' election to stress the urgent need for reform initiated by the current pontiff and confirmed by the World Synod.

We Are Church International, which is seeking renewal of the Roman Catholic Church, said it was pleased that Pope Francis was no longer in danger of death, and it called for prayers to continue for his speedy recovery.

In a statement We Are Church (WAC) expressed hope that the Pope would "accompany the renewal process of the Roman Catholic world church" for as long as possible.
